TERM ONE HIGHLIGHTS

This term, our Student Voice team has evaluated our Term 1 topic, 'I am an Environmentalist' and shared our thoughts with the teachers and students.

We got dressed up as reporters, grabbed the iPads, and took to the classrooms to see what ENPS students were learning about the environment. What we found was that the Senior School students have many amazing ideas about how we can protect the world that we live in. They were 'thinking in the minds of' and 'walking in the shoes of' real environmentalists.

Some students were looking closely at tackling global environmental issues while others were focusing on conservation at our school.

Be sure to check out the incredible work on the topic displays across the Senior School!

We also gathered ideas from our classmates about what we would like to learn for the Term 2 topic, 'I am an Astronomer'. We assembled a list of ideas that we wish to be included in the plan, such as making our own space suits, designing our own rockets, and constructing a 3D model of a human colony on Mars.

At Student Voice, we have been busy creating our own news articles, reporting on the exciting events that take place at ENPS.

Some events that we have captured include the afternoon

DOT workshops, the new leadership badges being awarded to the Year 6 students, and Senior and Junior School buddy reading.

Next term there will be many more events coming up for Student Voice to report on, including Science Week, the Athon and the School Disco.

We wish the 2019 Term 2 Student Voice representatives all the best as they embark on a new term and a new topic.

Ngā mihi,
